

The output RC should be placed close to the MCU to get rid of noise induced on the line and to allow for charging the sampling capacitor regardless of the trace inductance.

